Dear Friends:

On behalf of the Editorial Board I would like to inform you that one of the original article written by Dr. Jyoti Kataria (Assistant Professor, School of Physiotherapy, Delhi Pharmaceutical Sciences and Research University, New Delhi, India; Email: dahiya.jyoti25@gmail.com) which was published in Al Ameen Journal of Medical Sciences July 2020 Online [1] is found to be a redundant publication. This original article has already been published in other journal,

Physiotherapy and Occupational Therapy Journal (POTJ) April 2017 issue [2] before it was published in AJMS.

We have informed the matter to the respective editor in chief of the journal Physiotherapy and Occupational Therapy Journal (POTJ).

We have also communicated to the corresponding author (Dr. Jyoti Kataria) and asked her explanation on this matter. The author has apologized and has not provided any satisfactory explanation regarding her scientific misconduct. After discussion, the Editorial Board Members of Al Ameen Journal of Medical Sciences have decided to immediately retract the article of Dr. Jyoti Kataria from archive of AJMS online and debarred Dr. Jyoti Kataria permanently for any future contribution to AJMS.

This retrieval notice will also be circulated among the scientific community and institutions for information.

We deeply apologize to our learned readers and all the scientific community in the world for this inconvenience.

Sincerely

Editor

Al Ameen Journal of Medical Sciences
